PRESS RELEASE

This should have been the press release for the first exhibition at the new location. Unfortunately that exhibition is postponed in order to accommodate the health concerns of one of the artists.

Instead, gallerist Guus van der Velden shows some of his own painted to-do lists that he has been accumulating since 2018. Besides hinting at the framework through which each drawing finds its form, the drawings on display document the work that has gone into the exhibition behind the scenes. This includes a first impression of the new space, various administrative tasks, a sketch of the postponed exhibition and a drawing related to illness.

We hope to welcome you this weekend and together enjoy good health in anticipation of the exhibitions that are still on our to-do lists.
